Could anything be fairer?

In Kentucky a solidly Democratic state board may appoint solidly Democratic state board may appoint solidly Democratic even minority representation, for the Republicans.

Could anything be more unfair?

The Ohio election haw provides that the county board of supervisors, composed equally of Republicans and Democrats, shall appoin two judges and one cierk from each party, thus assuring an equal division of power and responsibility. As the Democratic supervisors are not likely to consent to the appointment of disreputable men as Republican effects, and Republican supervisors will not agree to ward heelers as Democratic officers, the result is that each party acts as a check agon the other, and respectable citizens are chosen to conduct elections are chosen to conduct elections are chosen to conduct elections.

In his speech at Eddyville, Congressman Wheeler said it was "a new phase in politicat life to him that there are a lot of preschers over Kentucky who have gotten so good that they can not vote for Goehel." There is another phase in political life new to all the people of Kentucky and much more objectionable to them than goodness is preschers, and that is the sight of judges coming down from the bench and taking the stump in political campaigns in which they are not candidates. That never occurred in Kentucky before, and when judges lower the dignity of their office in that way there is little wonder that respect for is will millsnies and Judge Lynch holds his court more frequently.
